Journey to Henry Ford Museum of American Innovation

Be transported to Dearborn, Michigan on the campus of The Henry Ford. A globally recognized destination that fosters inspiration and learning from hands-on encounters with artifacts, representing the most comprehensive collection anywhere focusing on innovation, ingenuity, and resourcefulness in America.

You'll be accompanied by two members of The Henry Ford's Learning & Engagement team to virtually explore Henry Ford Museum of American Innovation. Together we'll examine the stories behind six must-see artifacts like Buckminster Fuller's last surviving Dymaxion House prototype and the bus in which Rosa Parks refused to give up her seat. Expect to gain a new perspective for how material culture provides insight into the habits that innovators use to identify and solve problems as well as how innovation informs the interconnectedness of technological and social change.
